A man without a memory. A warrior with no future. And a "god" whose reward for service is death -- or eternal cold storage. No Other Gods is a cosmic battle through time and space between a man and a god -- a god who seems human enough to envy. Human enough to desire what little the man possesses. And human enough to kill what he no longer requires. Only too slowly, Geno learns that any sufficiently advanced technology is indistinguishable from magic. And that he too is not what he seems ... that the warrior with no past has history, had a life. While he learns what he once knew and becomes who he really is, he also discovers he has hopes and dreams for the future -- and for Livia, the woman he loves. Too bad the gods have all the power. Too bad he is just a pawn in a cosmic game. Too bad ... for the gods.
