Photographed on a snowy day in 2009, the featured images - some 60 in number - capture just some of the magic and romance of the West Cemetery. Broad landscapes panoramas are punctuated by detailed studies of memorials, making the need for verbal commentary unnecessary. Fellow photographer David Bailey introduces the collection, commenting - John, with his obsession for the romantic, is the perfect person to document this extraordinary place with his camera, adding another chapter to the living history of a place for the dead .
