When the Lady Shula of Aluderia needs someone to help her and the young prince Cristan escape, there's only one man for the job. Unfortunately, Captain Daniels, ace-pilot and super-stud extraordinaire, is just about to be beaten to a pulp by a creature three times his size for not paying his brothel-bill. To his great surprise, Shula steps forward and offers the credits he needs. To his even greater surprise she announces that she's his wife and the child she's holding is his. The last thing Captain Daniels needs is a woman and a baby on board. Particularly one being chased across the galaxy by the most elite bounty hunters in the business.

He has enough problems trying to stay one step ahead of the gangsters out to recover the debts he owes them. Shula will do anything to save the child and when she offers sex in return for passage she activates the Aludorian marker, a hormone that can put men in thrall. Now Shula and Captain Daniels find themselves fighting to outrun their pursuers and the effect of the marker. Dan wants her, but on his own terms, not because he can't help himself. In order for prince Cristan to grow into a warrior capable of reclaiming his throne, Dan must make a difficult decision.

But, in doing so, he may just rediscover a man he thought lost and find a love he never thought would be his.
